Appendix A - Shipping Web Services Error Codes

To discover errors, check the ResponseStatusCode element. A "1" normally indicates a successful response, whereas a "0" indicates an error, either Transient or Hard. When an error occurs there will also be an error code, and an error description.

- Success Successful responses may or may not include Warnings.
  - o (without warnings) Request is processed as anticipated by the client.
  - o (with warnings) Warning messages indicate that UPS was able to process the request; however (potentially) unanticipated results have also occurred. The warning contains information in the response that should be passed to the end user.
- Errors will return two different levels of severity.
  - o Transient errors are temporary errors, due to temporary high server loads or scheduled maintenance, for example. The application may re-issue the request at a later time.
  - o Hard errors indicate that an error existed in the request that UPS could not resolve. These errors are critical and prevent requests from processing.

Applications should not re-issue requests with Hard errors without first correcting the error.

The following table lists the errors that UPS may return in response to a request.
